The Horse Contract.

We stated last week that we were willing to open our columns to any explanations or corrections, in reference to the horse inspection at this place, that truth or justice would require of us. We want to get at the facts, and nothing more—we therefore embrace the first opportunity to say that in publishing Mr. Sellers, of Juniata county, as one of the contractors, we were in error, as we are informed, for we learn, on undoubted authority, that he had no interest whatever in the purchase of any of the horses that were delivered here. Mr. Souther, of Elk county, was the contractor for four hundred of them, and either McClure or a man by the name of Luper, of Chambersburg, had the contract for five hundred. Mr. Souther furnished five hundred horses, but one hundred were delivered at Pittsburg. Those he delivered here, were bought by Messrs. Colon, Lusk, and Nicholson, and many of them were creditable horses. The horses under McClure or Luper's contract, were bought by Brough & Trostle, of Franklin county. Those that were objectionable, we are informed by a person whose name we are permitted to give, were furnished by those parties, and, if so, the men that bought them, with the inspector, alone are culpable. We are unwilling to make charges indiscriminately, for we believe that some of the persons who furnished horses, acted in good faith, and therefore, we do not wish to connect them with the strictures we have made. We are as ready to do justice to individuals as to the Government.

The Government pays one hundred and twenty dollars for horses delivered at Washington. Those that were inspected here were taken at that price, after deducting the cost of their carriage to Washington.

☞ In our intercourse with men, we frequently blunder against those who are ever holding out the "olive branch of peace," to those who aimed the dagger at the very heart of the American Government, and denouncing the Administration at Washington, and the people of the North generally, for protecting the laws and defending the rights of men, good and true, against the lawless, deluded men who compose the Southern army. They tell us that a compromise could have been made, but that the North would not listen to any such thing, but plunged the country into this unholy rebellion, without ever listening to the fair propositions offered by the South. They tell us, too, that we mean to exterminate the South, and do this and that and the other thing, regardless of the rights of justice and of law.—Now, every sane man, who is not a disunionist, knows just as well as he lives, that these assertions are false from beginning to end. Everybody knows that the North offered the South every inducement that was fair and honorable, to settle this question, without involving the country into an unjust and unholy rebellion. They know too, that the Government did not make a single preparation for war, until the blood-curs of South Carolina fired upon Fort Sumpter. It is well known, too, that the South stole our money, our ships, our arms, and everything else that they could lay hands on, and all this time she said nothing, until they had well nigh ruined us; then, when she came to realize all these things, and defends herself, these ungrateful whelps abuse and censure her for so doing. All we have to say is, if such men do not like to see the Government defend herself, and crush out rebellion, why don't they go where they belong, and help their brothers in crime to wipe out our Government, and establish one of their own. We don't want you. We can get along better without you. We have enough of men who are loyal, and who are ready at any time to shed their last drop of blood for the Union. You are only a stench in the nostrils of every honest patriot, and an eye-sore to every man, woman and child in the North, who is not like yourself. Then go, for God's sake, and fight for the cause you have espoused, for we assure you, every man who can, is needed to buckle on his armor in defence of a bad cause, badly managed.

☞ Our exchanges published along the Juniata, notice the late freshet as being the most destructive that has visited us for a number of years.

THE MARYLAND ELECTION.—The result of the election gives the most healthy condition of that State on the Union question. Nothing could have been more gratifying at this time.—The vote in all the counties is the largest ever cast in the State. We hope the result will put a quietus on secessionism in that State forever.—The people have spoken at the ballot-box, and have declared by a majority of at least 30,000, that they are unconditionally in favor of the old Union. Now that the Union-loving citizens know their strength, they will exercise it, and inaugurate another state of affairs, and rid themselves of the destructive and baneful influences which have encircled them since the breaking out of this unhappy rebellion.

☞ The late freshet caused sad havoc to the H. & B. T. Railroad, between Saxton and the mines, on Shoup's Run Branch. All the bridges, except one, and a part of the track, were washed away. Not a pound of coal was sent from the mines last week.—The damage was repaired by Saturday evening last, and a locomotive passed over the road to the mines. This week the shipping is going on as usual. The Superintendent, Mr. Lawrence, is untiring in his labors, and no obstacle can impede his progress but for a very brief period. The demand for Broad Top coal is steadily advancing, and the trouble now is, they cannot mine it fast enough for the market.

THE MOUNTAIN BRIGADE.—We learn that Gov. Curtin has appointed the following officers for the First regiment in the Mountain Brigade, now in Camp Crosman: Wm. G. Murray, Colonel; T. C. McDowell, Lieutenant Colonel; Walter Barrett, Major; Dr. G. F. Hoops, surgeon; Rev. Dr. McLeod, chaplain; Lieut. S. Miles Kephcart, Quartermaster. This regiment is now fully organized, and as soon as they are uniformed and arms can be procured, will be ready for service.

SUTLERS' EXPEDIENTS.—Among the many expedients adopted by sutlers to sell contraband liquor to soldiers, one is exceedingly novel. They drop a couple of peaches into a bottle of whisky, and sell the compound for "pickled peaches." A more irreverent expedient is to have a tin can, made and painted like a hymn book, and labeled "The Boston Companion."

☞ We are requested to state that two boxes are being made up for Capt. Miles' company, and any of their friends at McAlevy's Fort, and other parts of the county, who may want to send any such articles as mittens with one finger, gloves, stockings or dried fruit, can have them sent free of charge, by leaving them with John G. Miles, Esq., of this place. They will be sent off in two or three weeks.

☞ Our delinquents attending court, will please and not forget to call at the Captain's office, and square their accounts. These are hard times—war times, too—and we need all the pecuniary aid we can collect, to keep the machine greased and in motion. Our latch-string will always be found on the outside of the door.

SMASH UP.—A coal train run off the track about two miles below this place, on Saturday evening. Some eight cars were thrown off and run nearly half a mile on the cross-ties before the train was stopped. One truck went into the canal. The seven o'clock train was detained several hours before they could get past.

☞ Prof. B. F. Dennis, of Boston, proposes to stop in this region of country during the winter, and has already made arrangements to teach several adult and juvenile classes in the art of singing. We hope he may receive a very liberal encouragement.

☞ Captain John M. Casey, of Luzerne county, has been appointed officer drill master for Camp Crosman.—The Captain has the spirit of a soldier and is a thorough drilled man. Every officer at Camp will be prepared for active service before he leaves camp.

CARD OF THANKS.—The Steward of the Hospital, in behalf of its patients, returns thanks to the ladies of Huntingdon and its vicinity, for their cheering visits and the kindness they display in rendering them so many little attentions, very grateful to the sick.

Camp Crosman, Nov. 12, 1861.

NEW DRESS.—The "phunny phellow" of the Hollidaysburg Standard, has rigged up his "gay and incomparable," in a bran new suit. It looks well, reads well, and, we hope, is doing well—if it isn't, it ought to be. Success to you, Traugh.

A NEW REGIMENT.—Three companies arrived here on Saturday night, from McKean and adjoining counties, to be connected with the 4th Regiment under command of Col. Curtis. The men are of the right material to make good soldiers.

☞ Important changes have been made in the Pennsylvania Central and H. & B. T. Railroad time tables. They will be found in another column.

☞ Our good friend, Mr. Simon Cohn has our thanks for a basket of nuts—chestnut and hickory.

SOMETHING WE DON'T OFTEN GET.—Mr. Stewart Corbett has our thanks for two fine rabbits.

☞ To the friends of the men under the command of Capt. J. B. Miles, of the 49th P. V., Col. Irwin,—now in service near Lewinsville, in Virginia.

In a letter lately received from my son Captain Miles, who takes a deep interest in the personal welfare of each member of his company, he states that his men are well provided with shoes, under-clothing, blankets and overcoats, but that if we could procure for them towels, pocket-handkerchiefs, gloves, books, and eatables such as the Government does not provide, it would add greatly to their comfort and he would be much indebted to us. Knowing that the friends and relations of his men would be glad of an opportunity to furnish them with such articles,—if they will forward soon to me, at Huntingdon, whatever they can spare, such as the articles above mentioned, and dried fruits, dried corn, canned tomatoes, lima beans, apple butter, canned fruits, pickles, &c., &c., I will have them forwarded for the use of the company. The jars should be carefully labelled, and well corked and cemented, and nothing sent that will spoil by delay, as the box may be some time on the way. If buckskin gloves, which are much more durable than any other kind, cannot be procured, will not their mothers and sisters knit mittens with one finger for them. My son said nothing about stockings for them, but I have no doubt a pair of stout home knit stockings, longer in the legs than the ordinary sock, would be a welcome gift. Persons who intend sending, will please write to me to that effect, that we may know how long to delay the packing of the box.

Capt. Wintrode's company has the honor of being the color company of the regiment to which it is attached. Sergeant Dewalt S. Fouse is the color sergeant of the regiment; a young man who will never bring dishonor to the glorious ensign. The company is one of the best out, and will be heard from if it should come in contact with any of Jeff. Davis' minions. John H. Wintrode is and will be captain of the company.

OUR CORRESPONDENCE.

MEADVILLE, Nov. 7, 1861.

DEAR GLOBE:—An apology for the long delay of your writer is to be found in the fact, that he had no desire of crowding out news of the camp and field, by sending local items. And even now, if you do not find room in your columns for this, you will find a convenient place for it in the stove.

The day appointed by the President for fasting and prayer in behalf of the nation, was hailed by the people of this community as a bright Sabbath, and was as faithfully spent, perhaps, as that day ever has been since the American nation has had an existence. The County Fair, held at Meadville, a few weeks ago, was as good as the times could well afford. Part of a herd of buffalo, a camel, and a Rocky mountain bear were exhibited; but the most interesting feature to me, was the presence of Tom Thumb, the smallest man now living. Tom is "a merry boy," and very popular among the fairer portion of mankind.

The war spirit is increasing daily.—Those who formerly held out "the olive branch of peace," and censured the efforts of the Government to preserve the nation from ruin and disgrace, are rapidly turning from the error of their ways; and while some of them are enlisting and willing to fight, others seem to be repenting, as it were, in sack cloth and ashes. May Heaven have mercy on them! Captain John Brown, whose father stirred a fever in the blood of the South, by a little noise at Harper's Ferry, made a war speech in the Court House in this place a short time since, and now has a company of sharp-shooters at Cincinnati, ready to join Fremont. The ladies of Meadville and vicinity, deserve great credit for their untiring efforts in making provision for the sick and wounded soldiers. At their request, Prof. Hamill gave an entertainment a few evenings since, in Centre Hall, for that purpose. During the early part of the war, Alleghony College sent her representative to the field. A company of her most able-bodied students, under Capt. Ayer, is in the army of the Potomac. Another company, under Capt. Davis, who graduated here last year, went into camp last week. The College is still living, but whether it will survive four months longer, the future only can reveal. One of the Professors is a lieutenant in the army, and the Vice President is elected Chaplain. More anon. M. C.

WAR NEWS.

FROM MISSOURI

Battle Near Columbus, Kentucky.

CAIRO, Nov. 7.—An expedition left here last night under command of Generals Grant and McClernand, and landed at Belmont, three miles above Columbus at 8 o'clock this morning.

The Federal troops, numbering 3,500, engaged the rebels, whose force amounted to 7,000, at 11 o'clock. The battle lasted till sundown. The rebels were driven from their entrenchments across the river with great loss. Their camp was burned with all their stores and baggage.

Their cannon, horses and mules, with one hundred prisoners, were captured.

The Federal troops then retired, the rebels having received reinforcements from Columbus.

Both of our Generals had their horses shot from under them. Col. Dougherty, of Illinois, was wounded and taken prisoner by the rebels.

The rebel loss is not known. The Federal loss is believed to be from three to five hundred.

Particulars of the Fight.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—A special Cairo despatch to-day, gives the particulars of the fight at Belmont, yesterday.

Our force consisted of the following Illinois regiments: Twenty-second, Col. Dougherty; Twenty-seventh, Col. Buford; Thirtieth, Col. Foulke; Thirty-first, Col. Logan; Seventh Iowa Regiment, Col. Lamon; Taylor's Chicago Artillery, and Dollen's and Delano's Cavalry.

They left Cairo on the steamers Alex. Scott, Chancellor, Memphis and Keystone State, accompanied by the gunboats Lexington and Tyler.

After landing they were formed in line of battle, Gen. McClernand in command of the Cairo troops, and Col. Dougherty of the Bird's Point troops.

They were encountered by the rebels 7,000 strong, and fought every inch of their way to the enemy's camp, making sad havoc in the enemy's ranks.

Colonel Buford was the first to plant the Stars and Stripes in the enemy's camp. Col. Dougherty's regiment captured the rebel battery of twelve pieces, two of which were brought away.

Col. Foulke's men suffered greatly, as they were in front of the batteries before they were taken.

Later and Important.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—A special despatch to the Times from Cairo, says it is impossible to obtain anything like an accurate report of the killed, wounded and missing in the engagement at Belmont, on the 7th.

It is estimated that twenty-five of the Twenty-second Illinois are missing.

The total missing are reported at three hundred and fifty.

Of the Seventh Iowa, Col. Lauman was wounded, but not dangerously.

Lieutenant-Colonel Wendell killed; the Major and Adjutant are missing, and the reported killed in Logan's Regiment is 35 and 47 wounded.

All but 44 of Col. Foulke's regiment answered at the roll call, yesterday afternoon.

The loss in Buford's regiment has not been ascertained, but it is supposed not to be heavy.

One hundred and twenty prisoners were taken.

All accounts concur in placing the rebel loss much heavier than our own.

Belmont has been abandoned by the rebels. They have 150 prisoners, and acknowledge 350 killed, but would not permit the Federal officers who went to Columbus with the flag of truce yesterday, to visit the place to which they conveyed their dead.

No reliable news has been received from Col. Oglesby's command, which started on an expedition against Jeff. Thompson's command, at Bloomfield, a few days since. A report prevails, however, that he had encountered Jeff. Thompson's forces, killing three hundred and losing fifty of his own command.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The War Department has received an official telegram concerning the battle at Belmont, Missouri, which generally confirms the newspaper statements. It says that Capt. Bielouski, of Gen. McClernand's staff, was killed, and among other particulars, "We fought all the way into the enemy's camp, immediately under the guns of Columbus, spiked two guns and brought away two, together with 200 prisoners." The Federal loss is stated at 300, that of the enemy being much heavier.

FROM VIRGINIA.

Important from Fortress Monroe.

FORTRESS MONROE, via Baltimore, Nov. 8.—A flag of truce was sent to Norfolk this morning, but brought back no passengers and no news whatever of the fleet.

Yesterday the United States gunboat Rescue went up the Rappahannock river as far as Urbanna creek, and off the mouth of this creek she captured a large schooner. She took off all her stores and moveable property, and then burned the vessel to the water's edge. The Rescue was fired upon from a masked battery on shore. The fire was returned and the rebels completely shelled out.

The commander of the Rescue was occupied the entire day in shelling every spot where there were indications of the presence of rebel troops.—Subsequently a small boat was seen crossing the river with three men.—The Rescue's boat was sent in pursuit and captured the boat with two of the men, but the third managed to escape by wading ashore with a bag of letters.

The gunboats Rescue and Cambridge were to make another visit to the Rappahannock to-day, and shell the woods, where the rebel force is supposed to be.

FROM MARYLAND.

The Union Triumph in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—Returns have been received from three-fourths of the State. The Legislature stands, as far as heard from, about 65 Union, and not one Secessionist. For the Senate, 10 Union men have been elected, and not a single Secessionist. Seven Secession Senators hold over, but they are principally boarding in Fort Warren. The Union cause has already secured, with the three Union men holding over, a clear working majority in that branch.

The majority for A. W. Bradford, the Union candidate for Governor, will not be less than 32,000, and the vote in all the counties is the largest ever cast in the State. Hurrah for our Union-loving State.

LATEST NEWS.

Glorious News from the Fleet.

THE CAPTURE OF BEAUFORT CONFIRMED.

FORTRESS MONROE, Nov. 10, via. Baltimore.—The steamer S. R. Spaulding arrived from Hatteras Inlet this morning, with the Twentieth Indiana regiment. A deserter who reached the Inlet in a small boat, stated that news had been received on the mainland of the capture of the two rebel forts at Port Royal, and the landing of a large Federal force.

Beaufort had also been taken by our troops, No particulars had arrived, but the main facts correspond with the news received a few hours since from Norfolk by a flag of truce.

Great excitement prevailed on the arrival of the news at Norfolk. From the same source we have a rumor that the Railroad above Beaufort (the line connecting Savannah and Charleston) had fallen into the possession of our troops, with an immense quantity of stores.

The Strength of the Army.

The Administration has not only to fight the secessionists, but to protect itself from the rashness of public men who urge an immediate advance of the army, without regard to its numerical strength or discipline. Several intelligent writers at Washington are endeavoring to appease the clamor thus raised, by their explanations. The correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, under date Oct. 31st, says:

Persons arriving here from the Northern cities state that the people express surprise and disappointment at the slow progress of the war on the Potomac, and the prospect that military operations will cease till spring. They have an exaggerated idea of the number of the Federal troops, and underrate the difficulties of an advance with forces hardly yet subjected to proper discipline. The force is large enough for any practical purpose. It is propably larger than that with which Napoleon made his campaign in 1813 against the allied powers of Europe. It is larger than that with which he won the great battle of Lutzen on the 2d of May, in that year, and which would, as he declared, have enabled him to make a favorable peace, if he had only been better provided with cavalry, so as to have destroyed the routed foe. It is larger than the army with which, in that campaign, he actually marched thirty leagues and fought three great battles in seven days.

But the circumstances here are so different that Napoleon himself would be unable to move. He was not encumbered with transportation of stores, supplies, camp equipage, tents, &c., and had only to march on good roads, through a populous country, thickly studded with towns and villages, and billet his troops, as he went, upon the inhabitants. But in this case transportation and subsistence must be provided for army movements.

The correspondent of the Boston Journal adopts substantially the same view, writing as follows:

President Lincoln has been hard pressed during the past few days, by a determined band of Western Congressmen, urging him to order Gen. M'Clellan "on to Richmond." An Ohio Senator was foremost, bluntly declaring that, "Something, Mr. Lincoln, must be done. War must be made on the Secessionists; or we will make war on the Administration!" The honest, true-hearted man was evidently sincere and he doubtless believes, as it is evident others do, that we have an overwhelming force, ready to sweep forward, and to carry before it all obstacles, but made to remain here idle, and to rust out.

The President listens to all who have a right to offer their opinions, but it is said that he does not attempt to remove erroneous ideas because in so doing he would reveal momentous secrets of which he is a depository. It is natural to suppose that he knows the strength of the army, about which inquisitive busy-bodies are terribly befogged, as results will show. He must know that while we have men, arms and munitions of war, the great majority of the men are raw recruits, naturally as brave as lions, but as yet more or less undisciplined and too often aware of the ignorance and incapacity of their officers. He can but remember Vienna, and Big Bethel, and Bull Run, and Ball's Bluff, and who can wonder if he hesitates before plunging into another contest, which, judging from the past, might prove disastrous and if so, would endanger this metropolis? These reasons Mr. Lincoln could give the fight-urgers, and he could substantiate them by facts.

A politician comes here, and growls because he sees troops marched miles merely to be reviewed—"Why not," he indignantly exclaims, "march the same regiment towards Manassas?" That little game has been played once, and we lost—lost because our troops were undisciplined, because they were tired out by marching and because they did not know many of their superior officers. The daily reviews now taking place are well calculated to prevent a repetition of the causes which led to that disaster.

In fact the whole army is in training, and your correspondent has, without seeking to pry into the secrets of the General Commanding become convinced, from personal observation, that admirable preparations are going on for a decisive movement when the right time shall have arrived. Festina lente—hasten slowly—is necessarily the motto of the grand army. The naval and military expedition was nearly a month behind time, but Gen. McClellan will not be behindhand, and he should receive the cordial co-operation and sympathy of the citizens of this Republic, whose capital he has saved—and will not now leave unprotected, or even endanger it by any rash movement.

The Northmen.

A writer in a public journal some years ago expressed the great want of the people on this subject, in truthful and eloquent language. "There is a nation," said the writer, "even now extant, possessing as brave a history as that of the Romans, as poetic as that of the Greeks; a nation that has controlled the world's history in many things, and at many times, and whose achievements in war and in letters are worthy the most heroic age of Rome, and the most finished period of Greece; a nation whose philosophy outran their age, and anticipated results that have been occurring ever since." In these remarks he referred to the Northmen, the dwellers of Scandinavias, who lived as heroes, lords and conquerors; who, sailing out of the ice and desolation in which they were born and nurtured, conquered England, Scotland and Ireland, ravaged Brittany and Normandy, discovered and colonized Iceland and Greenland; crossed the Atlantic in their crazy barques, and discovered America long before Columbus existed. Is there not some one, the writer asked, who will write us a history of Scandinavias?

Prof. Sinding, a native of Denmark, has responded to this call, and has furnished the public with an excellent work on this interesting subject, of upwards of four hundred pages. The Professor has been about three years in this country, and in that short period acquired sufficient knowledge of the English language to enable him to write the work in our own tongue; and he has performed his task with surprising ability. A critic may detect occasionally the idiom of the foreigner, but he will be surprised to find so little to complain of in that respect. The work shows that the author is a man of letters, and it displays industrious research. That part of it which relates to the religious and political institutions of the Northmen, will be interesting to all nations; while the discovery of America by the Northmen, long before Columbus came into the world, will have a peculiar value in this country.

The accomplished author differs from many other foreigners who have visited this country. He is modest, unassuming, refined but easy in his manners, and very agreeable and interesting in conversation. He mingles with the masses, and makes himself well acquainted with their habits and feelings. If he should write a work on this country, he will know how to do justice to our people and their institutions.

The above notice, which we take from the Phila. North American, was written by Judge Ellis Lewis, whose endorsement of the work offers a sure guarantee of its value; and, in introducing it to our readers, we take occasion to say that Prof. Sinding will be in Huntingdon on Thursday or Friday, and will remain for some time, so that those who desire copies of the work can be supplied from the fourth edition, which is now in press.

How the Rebels Wilfully Destroy Property.

Among the documents found in the enemy's camp at Romney, Va., after the brilliant victory of General Kelly, were the following, which tell their own story:

"HEADQUARTERS, ROMNEY, VA.,
"October 20, 1861.

"Col. E. H. McDonald will take all the mounted men of his command, except those upon scout service, and with them, together with Captain Sheet's company of the cavalry regiment, repair to the mouth of Big Capon, in the county of Morgan, and then proceed to destroy 'Dam No. 6,' by digging around the abutment a sufficient ditch on the Virginia shore to drain the dam, and by such other means as may suggest themselves to him as best to effect the destruction of the dam, confining his operations to the Virginia shore. The necessary implements will be provided to accompany you. Having effected all you can towards the destruction of the dam, you will proceed to destroy the water stations on the Baltimore and Ohio railroads as far as the South Branch, or as many as you can conveniently with a speedy return to this point with your command. Arriving there, you will proceed to destroy the abutments of the bridge thereof. On your arrival at Dam No. 6, and every twelve hours after, you will despatch a courier to report your progress to headquarters. Upon your return, you will report in writing your action under this order.

By order of
"ANGUS W. M'DONALD.
"A. W. M'Donald, Aid."

"ADJ'T INSPECTOR-GEN.'S OFFICE,
Richmond, June 1, 1861.

"SIR: You will proceed to Harper's Ferry, and report to General Johnson, with such troop of horse as you can spare from his command, and such as you may raise as have not yet been mustered into service. You will then, with this force, proceed to the Chegt River Bridge, and if practicable destroy the same, and as much of the road, bridges and tunnels, as you can accomplish.

"Very resp't'ly, your ob't serv't,
S. COOPER,
"Adjutant Inspector-General.

"Colonel Angus McDonald, Provisional Army, Confederate States, Richmond, Va."

These papers were found in the trunk of Colonel McDonald, one of the rebel officers. The Confederates, in the face of this revelation, are clearly convicted of falsehood, when they assert that public and private property has been respected by their troops.

☞ Pennsylvania has in the field to-day, 101,070 men; New York, 85,000. The Keystone State leads the Empire by 16,000.

Southern Sentiments and Practices.

The following extracts, from various sources, illustrate the motives and the tendencies of the men who are the head of the rebellion at the south. The first is from the Richmond Whig.

"We must elevate our race, every man of it—breed them up to arms—to command—to empire. The art military should constitute a leading part of every white man's education. The right of voting should be a high privilege, to be enjoyed by those only who are worthy to exercise it. In a word, the whole white population of the south should be brought into a high toned aristocracy."

The Augusta (Ga) Chronicle, not only endorses the above, though written at a date anterior, but improves upon it in vast proportions of tyranny. It is a condensation of the speech of Gov. Brown of that state, one of the most prominent traitors in the South:

"Some of the wisest and best citizens propose a hereditary Constitutional Monarchy. It is thought, again, by others, that we shall be able to go on for a generation or two in a new Confederacy, with additional safeguards—such as, for an instance, an Executive for life, a vastly restricted suffrage, Senators elected for life or for a longer period, say twenty-one years, and the most popular branch of the Assembly elected for seven years, the Judiciary absolutely independent, and for life or good behavior."

HOW IT WAS DONE.

The following extract, from a New York exchange, gives in brief the modus operandi of the rebel. The inception of secession, the plans to mislead the loyal people of the north—the mode of commencing operations, and their accomplishment. Does not the blood of every loyal man rise up, when he reads and knows, that this treason was permitted unrebuked to grow to its dire extremity of the present condition of affairs.

"The greatest part of all the officers of the government were filled by persons who openly and heartily advocated the destruction of the Confederacy, in the event of the election of a person to office not acceptable to their tastes or ideas. Such an event being foreseen under Mr. Buchanan's administration, his confidential advisers immediately began to prepare for the outbreak by disarming the north, by corrupting the army, and by putting the south in position for the stupendous resistence it is now making. There was to be no coercion; no forts were to be held against the wishes of those designing to seize them. Mr. Floyd, with impunity, stole our arms; Mr. Toucey scattered and dismantled our fleet, and Mr. Cobb visited New York with the express purpose of putting an end to the operations of government, by destroying its credit. Mr. Yancey was received with open arms by a great political party in this state, and feted all the way on this political tour from New York city to Niagara Falls. For a time the moral sense of a large portion of the community seemed completely debauched. Washington, made up of office-holders appointed by such administrations, could not be otherwise than the very focus of the disunion scenes and sentiment. Dissolution had been plotted there for years.

The Removal of Fremont.

The action of the Administration in removing General Fremont pleases us very much in one point of view. We admire its courage. For our parts, we have no doubt at all that the Government sincerely believed that Fremont was unfit for the position. The President is said to have remarked that everything said by the Blairs might be left out of view, and that still the reasons for the removal of Fremont would be ample.

Now what we admire in Mr. Lincoln is, that when he had made up his mind to the incompetency of Fremont, and with his overflowing kindliness, we have no doubt he did it most reluctantly, that he should have disregarded political considerations, and taken the responsibility. He knew very well the clamor that would be raised. He knew that there had been a devoted attachment to Fremont among the young men in the great electioneering campaign, when he came so near to the Presidential chair. He knew that Fremont has much magnetic power over his personal friends, and he knew well how desirable it is just now not to multiply causes of dissatisfaction, but to unite the entire country in this prodigious war.

But the Government knows also that the precise necessity, overriding all others in this war, is success. We may have other things or not; we must have fit Generals. And we do not believe that the Administration would retain any Major General in high command, even though he were the nearest relative of any member of the Cabinet, if he were believed to be incompetent. We believe that they regard, just now, competence as absolutely indispensable.

Let us examine, for an instant, the theory that Mr. Cameron, or Mr. Chase, or Mr. Seward wishes to kill off Gen. Fremont as a candidate for the Presidency. The truth is that Fremont is rapidly reaching a position that makes the statement ridicrous. But suppose it be seriously considered. It is plain that there is more risked politically by turning Fremont out than by keeping him in. The probabilities of his accomplishing anything very brilliant are less than those of his gathering a disaffected party against the Administration and endeavoring to embarrass it on the plan that Mr. Cameron or Mr. Chase is using the country, without patriotic feeling, for his own purposes. McClellan, or some other of our young generals, is a much more dangerous competitor for the Presidency than Fremont.

We admire, then, the pluck of the Government. It is one of the qualities greatly needed at such a time. The people want vigor, and they will sustain it. If General Fremont considers himself aggrieved, let him have a Court of Inquiry. Give him a fair trial. But let there be no favor shown to inefficiency It is the nation's agony, and we cannot stand on ceremony. Victories must make our generals, as Napoleon said, and we must make our way to the fit men at every hazard.—Phila. Bulletin.

MILITARY BOOKS.

REVISED ARMY REGULATIONS.

BY AUTHORITY OF THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

The book is an octavo of 500 pages, is elegantly printed on fine paper, with new bold type, and has an admirable volumnize index, for which every officer will be grateful, the moment his eye rests upon it, as no former edition has ever had an index, and the want of one has been long felt in the Army.

The Appendix embraces the Articles of War, containing many important corrections; also, selections from the Military Acts of Congress, including those passed at the last session.

ANCIENT JERUSALEM,

A LARGE AND BEAUTIFUL

ISOMETRICAL PICTURE

And the Sacred Places Surrounding the HOLY CITY,

AS THEY APPEARED IN ANCIENT TIMES.

The above work is commended to the favorable notice of clergymen, and those having charge of Sunday-schools, Bible-classes, and public institutions.

It is about 9 feet long and 6 feet wide, colored and varnished, and mounted on canvas with rollers.

It has been constructed from the most reliable and authentic sources, and will be found an invaluable aid to those engaged in lecturing on the Holy Land, or in imparting instruction to school classes on the subject to which it refers.

It aims to give an exact idea of the city as it appeared in ancient times. It is taken as a "bird's eye" or "balloon" view, the beholder being, in imagination, placed at a considerable elevation, so as to take a comprehensive view of the city and the whole country for some distance around.

The view is accompanied with an Outline Key, in which the different localities are numbered, and a Descriptive Manual containing all the information necessary to enable one to use the view to advantage in teaching or lecturing.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL TIMES.

This is a Weekly Religious Paper, published at the very low price of ONE DOLLAR A YEAR. It is designed for Parents, Teachers, and all who are engaged or interested in the religious training of the young. It is also an excellent Family Paper.

A portion of the Sunday-School Times is occupied with Narratives and other matter particularly interesting to young persons. Teachers will find in it much that they will like to read to their classes—interesting matter prepared to their hands, and such as they cannot find elsewhere. For the same reasons, members of Bible-classes, and the older scholars generally, will be greatly benefited by the perusal of this paper.

The Sunday-School Times has every week a report of the choicest matter, selected from the Noon Prayer Meetings, which are so interesting to all classes of Christians.

Besides a large amount of general religious intelligence, the Sunday-School Times contains all the most recent Sunday-school news. It reports all the important Conventions of Sunday-school teachers. It discusses the questions which most interest and perplex teachers and parents, respecting the various methods of Religious Training for the young, the means of gaining the attention and affections of children, and especially of securing their conversion and bringing them to Christ. The subject of Mission-Schools for cities, and of Sunday-school missionary work for the interior, is thoroughly canvassed. Indeed, there is hardly a topic of practical importance to any who are interested in the subject of religious education, which is not here brought under consideration from week to week.

The conductors of this paper endeavor to remember, that the great end of all Christian effort is to bring men to Christ. They aim accordingly, to put into every number of the paper something which shall have for its direct object the conversion of souls.

SPECIAL OFFER.

The proprietors of the Sunday-School Times have acquired the exclusive right of sale of the splendid work mentioned above, the MAP OF ANCIENT JERUSALEM, offer it as a special premium to those superintendents, teachers, or others, who will assist in getting new subscribers to the paper.

We offer this superb premium to any one who will send us the names of 12 new subscribers and $12 in cash.

CAUTION.

☞ In every case, before beginning to canvass, be sure to write to us and obtain the necessary documents and instructions. These will help you greatly in prosecuting the work, and will save you many mistakes. Enclose 3 cents to pay postage. Address

R. NEWELL'S PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY,

No. 724 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

One of the largest and most complete Galleries in the States, where the best Pictures, known to the Photographic art, are taken at prices not higher than are paid for miserable caricatures.

The Proprietor, a practical Photographer, attends personally, every sitting—and allows no picture to leave the Gallery unless it gives perfect satisfaction.

Daguerreotypes and Ambrotypes, of absent or deceased friends, photographed to any required size, or taken on Canvas, life size, and painted in Oil by the best Artists.

At this Gallery pictures can be taken in any weather—as perfect in cloudy days as when the sun shines.

Persons visiting the city are respectfully invited to examine our specimens, which for price and quality defy competition.

☞ Instructions given in the art of Photography.

R. NEWELL,
GALLERY OF ART,
724 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

COMMENDATIONS:

From Hon. Lewis D. Campbell, M. C., Ohio.

My family and friends all concur in the opinion that the (Newell) picture is more life-like than any thing they ever saw. My likeness has been repeatedly taken by different Artists in various ways, but I have never yet had one which presents so true to nature, all the features and expressions of countenance as this.

From Hon. E. Joy Morris, late Minister to Italy,

The exquisite finish, beauty and softness of your portraits, combined with their durability of color and faithfulness as likenesses, cannot fail to commend them to the attention and patronage of all who appreciate true art.

From Col. James Page.

Having occasion for a portrait, I procured one from Mr. Robert Newell, of the city of Philadelphia, a miniature in Oil Colors, under the new process discovered by him, and take great pleasure in expressing the satisfaction given me, not only by the accuracy of the likeness, but its artistic finish in all respects, and recommends him to the patronage of those disposed to encourage the beautiful art.
